COPYRIGHT PERMISSION AND RELEASE FORM

Environmental Systems Research Institute, Inc. (Esri), is interested in receiving permission to use your supplied materials including drawings, illustrations, composites, photographs, slides, negatives, transparencies, video, film, videotape, film footage, voice electronic recordings, maps, graphics, screen shots, or other printed and/or digital artwork, text, data, quotes, newspaper articles, press releases, music, and other materials supplied ("Material(s)") and written description(s) for commercial or educational purposes.

Description of Material(s):

The wall map of Roman Empire is created for educational purposes – especially for history classes. The map depicts the history of the ancient Rome and the subsequent Empire, from its foundation to the 15th century, when it ceased to exist. The map composition consists of 5 map fields showing tribal settlements in contemporary Italy until III. century BC, ancient unification of Italy by Rome, Roman conquests (III. and II. century BC), Roman Empire from I. century BC and the plan of ancient Rome.

The colours in the map differentiate the territory of Roman Empire over the years. All maps also portray other aspects of European and Mediterranean history: tribal invasions, conquests of other European countries, major battles fought at that time or locations of other nations, outside of Rome and the Empire.
